

D-615
905 Race Street
Cambridge
Private

1890s

This is a highly ornamental Queen Anne style building along an otherwise architecturally uninteresting part of Race Street. Although much of the house is now covered by asbestos siding, the patterned shingles on the front gable can still be seen. The most unusual feature of this house is the central tower, with its four-sided bell-shaped roof supported by carved brackets and topped by a widow's walk made of turned balusters.

D-615
905 Race St.
Cambridge
Cambridge Quad.
Dorchester Co.

D-615

D-615

50<sup>8</sup>%